Astrodome Seafood and Joe Namath

By the time I got around to seeing Houston's Astrodome New Orleans is building one that you could put the Astrodome into and have room to spare.

At least that's the information a Middle South Utilities press release reported on my return Monday from a week-end watching the Houston Oilers surprise Joe Namath and the New York Jets 26 to 20.

Many of the people around here have seen the Astrodome not once but several times, nevertheless it still had a kick for me. From the outside view you wouldn't imagine they could put 51,000 persons into that building—but they were there Sunday afternoon, 51,423, including hundreds of standees, the morning Houston Post reported.

The Astrodome always draws big, but the cause of this complete sellout was one guy named Joe Namath. Houston is loyal to its own but there was a substantial cheering section for the New York Jets.

Maybe Texas is like Arkansas. If there's any size crowd watching a Little Rock high school home football game all the fans who don't live in Little Rock cheer the visiting team. In a big state like Texas there must be plenty of fans who don't like Houston—which would explain the strange division of support at the Astrodome Sunday.

Namath lived up to his advance booking. With 4 minutes left in the game and the Jets trailing 20 to 26 Joe came up the field with one rifle pass after another, and you visualized a 27-26 squeaker. But on the Houston 27 Joe's throw was intercepted—and that was the ball game.

Houston had a hero of its own, Quarterback Pastorini (No. 7). He had Houston up to this game, and took the Jets. The crowd groaned when Pastorini injured a knee in the second quarter—but gave him an ovation when he returned to the game at the opening of the second half.

While Houston's Astrodome is hailed as the eighth wonder of the world New Orleans is about to top it with the Superdome, ready by 1974. The Astrodome holds 51,000 for football games, but the Superdome will hold 80,000.

Back to Houston—Pod Rogers and I put up at the Tides II motel, 6700 S. Main. A few blocks away is one of Houston's finest seafood restaurants, Pier 21, and we took advantage of it. Best stuffed crabs I ever ate.

Houston is 330 miles from Hope (center to center) by either of two routes, and six hours' driving whichever you take.

We went down by way of Shreveport, to Carthage, Texas, Nacogdoches, and U.S. 59 to Houston. But we encountered some road construction. The better route is the one we followed on our trip home. We picked up U.S. 290 at Nacogdoches and ran to Henderson, then on 43 to Marshall, and 59 to Texarkana. This route is wide and clear of construction.

LITTLE RIVER COUNTY REPORTS SCREWORM

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Cases of screwworm infections were confirmed Monday in Little River County and Logan County, state Veterinarian R. M. Thomas said.

Thomas said the new cases pose a mild threat to livestock, but that a hard frost would end the problem for the year.

Want some grass? How about a bunch of grass?

It took one pre-schooler to lead the way recently when the First Baptist Church kindergarten class visited the J. R. Bennett Ranch near Hope on a field trip. The horses delighted the kindergarten youngsters, but most of the kids shied away from the "big horsies" until one brave little girl showed the correct way to extend hay. Then everybody got into the act.

McGovern escalates allegations of corruption

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is escalating allegations of White House corruption, saying government scandals of the past were "child's play compared to what's going on in this administration."

The Democratic presidential nominee evidently has decided to make that a major theme in what he said will be an all-out campaign against President Nixon during the five weeks until election day.

McGovern is campaigning today in New York and Boston after asserting that, while the President talks of law and order, "I submit (that) the pervasiveness toward a breakdown of high moral standards in this country begins right with Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew."

McGovern pressed that as his issue Monday in Washington, Lyndhurst, N.J., and at a $500-a-plate campaign fund-raising dinner at New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

"The Nixon administration is the most morally bankrupt administration in the entire history of our country," he told the fund-raising dinner crowd estimated at more than 1,000

Monday night. He also said it is the worst administration.

"The influence of big money is corrupting the integrity of government on a scale never seen before," McGovern said.

The chief components of McGovern's corruption charges are those he has been raising for weeks—the Justice Department settlement of the International Telephone & Telegraph antitrust case; "this smelly whang deal" with the Soviet Union, and campaign contributions to Nixon from anonymous donors, which the Democratic candidate said may total $30 million.

F111 jerked from combat in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The United States has pulled its F111 fighter-bombers from combat after delaying for five days the disclosure that one of the sophisticated planes had vanished mysteriously on its first mission.

While the swing-wing F111 jets were withdrawn, scores of F4 Phantoms from bases in Thailand launched heavy strikes west of Hanoi near the Laotian border where a new North Vietnamese buildup was reported under way for a dry-season offensive in Laos.

In raids Monday, which were not disclosed until today by the U.S. Command, the F4s from Udorn, Udorn and Korat Air Bases in Thailand attacked the Na San and Yen Bai air bases and a military barracks between Hanoi and the Laotian border and between Hanoi and the Chinese border.

In apparent retaliation Monday night, terrorists attacked Udorn Air Base, 300 miles northeast of Bangkok, killing a Thai sentry and wounding two Americans and two Thais. One terrorist was reported killed, and one captured in the raid, the second in 24 hours against U.S. bases in Thailand, Udorn Air Base, 300 miles southeast of Udorn, came under mortar attack Sunday night.

The U.S. Command refused to officially acknowledge the reports, which came from reliable sources, that the $9 million F111 planes had been withdrawn from combat after the loss of one with two crewmen aboard Thursday. Less than a dozen bombing missions were flown by the F111s which had just returned to the war zone after a four-year absence, sources said.

"We have no comment," said a Command spokesman, refusing to confirm or deny the reports.

The F111 has been surrounded by controversy over costs and mechanical flaws since the mid-1960s when plans for the swing-wings were first approved.

Three hospitalized following wreck

Three persons were hospitalized Monday following a two-vehicle wreck about 10:30 p.m. at the S-curve at the intersection of U.S. Highway 67 at South Shover St. Hospitalized were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Blakeley, both of Hope and Jean Smith, 20, also of Hope. Blakeley was the driver of a 1962 Chevrolet, and Miss Smith was a passenger in a 1969 Chevrolet driven by Donnie Fulton. Fulton was charged with driving left of center. Both cars were totaled. Investigating officers were City policemen, Richard Rowe and Everett Edwards, and State Trooper Robert Neal. All three persons are in Memorial Hospital in undetermined condition.

Nixon, Gromyko in accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today placed into force accords to check the superpower nuclear arms race. They joined in a call for continued efforts to remove the danger of war.

The ceremony in the White House East Room included the final steps on a treaty limiting defensive missiles and an executive agreement freezing for five years most of the two nations' long-range nuclear arsenals.

The accords were signed by Nixon and Soviet leaders in their Moscow summit talks last May.

In comments to an assemblage of 200 Cabinet officers, congressional and government leaders, both Nixon and Gromyko looked ahead to negotiations to broaden what Nixon called a first step in limiting the burden of nuclear arms.

The President said the accords were "the beginning of a great historical process" in which the two nations found they can make progress in checking the arms race. He voiced hope that future talks will lead to a "world that is much safer" and a world that is "possibly free from the danger of nuclear disaster."

Largest defense spending bill since WWII approved by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $74.6-billion defense spending bill, largest since World War II, after defeating a provision to halt U.S. bombing in Indochina but adopting a warmed-over 1971 end-the-war amendment.

By a 55-26 vote Monday, the Senate defeated Sen. William Proxmire's amendment to delete from the bill some $2 billion earmarked for U.S. bombing in Indochina.

Then it adopted by voice vote the same end-the-war language which passed Congress last year and which President Nixon has ignored.

Nevertheless, Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., insisted that attaching the 1971 language to the defense spending bill would prevent the money from being spent unless the prescribed steps were taken to end the war.

But Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said the Mathias amendment "doesn't mean a thing. It's completely redundant, just a restatement of what is the law of the land today."

The amendment repeats the language proposed by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and attached to a military procurement bill last year.

The amendment urges the President to set a date for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina if Hanoi releases American prisoners of war and accounts for GIs missing in action. It also urges the President to seek a negotiated cease-fire.

When Nixon signed the bill containing the Mansfield amendment nearly 11 months ago, he called the end-the-war urgings "without binding force or effect."

Arguing for his amendment to cut off money for bombing, Proxmire, D-Wis., labeled the bombing immoral, ineffective and wasteful.

"A record of inhumanity against the yellow man has been riveted into the consciousness of Asians for generations," he stated.

The bill, as finally passed by a 70-5 vote, also includes $50 million to turn over Army KP duties to civilians and funds for major new weapons programs. The bill now goes to a conference committee to resolve differences between the House and Senate versions.

Some $4 billion had been cut from White House requests for military salaries, replacement equipment, new weapons programs, research and development.

Senators voted 46 to 26 to defeat an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to reduce the entire appropriation by 5 per cent, letting the Pentagon choose where to cut. Hart argued the move would have saved $3.7 billion to spend on urgently needed domestic programs.

Arts Center Troupe to present 3 performances

The Arkansas Arts Center Tell-A-Tale Troupe, a part of the Center's State Services program, will present three performances of the children's classic "The Frog Prince" at Hope High School on Thursday, Oct. 12.

Performances will be at 8:45 a.m., 10 a.m., and 12:30 p.m.

The Tell-A-Tale Troupe is a group of professional actors who perform plays for children and adults throughout the state.

Included in the company are Shirley Rosenbaum, Debbie Woods, Pat Wyatt, Jean Lind, Flo Albright, Diane Collins, Bill Eubanks, Randy Blyth, Guy Couch, Don Hendricks and Tom Carlisle.

All of the actors perform different roles in each of the plays offered. The State Services program at the Arkansas Arts Center is made possible through an appropriation from the Arkansas General Assembly.

"The Frog Prince" is the story of a handsome prince who is turned into an ugly frog by the wicked snake witch. The lovely princess kisses him and turns him back into a Handsome Prince in time to destroy the witch and save the country.

These performances are sponsored by the Hope Junior Auxiliary and the Hope Chamber of Commerce.

IRA steps up fight against British spies

BELFAST (AP) — Irish Republican Army gunmen stepped up their drive against a new target today — British army undercover agents posing as tradesmen to spy out guerrilla territory.

The IRA campaign was launched Monday when gunmen shot and killed a British soldier disguised as a laundry man as he sat in his delivery truck. A woman soldier, also in plain clothes and acting as his assistant,

Indians take over building

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP) — "We took over the administration building—we moved in about 15 till 9," said the young-sounding telephone caller.

"We plan to stay as long as possible, as long as we're needed."

He identified himself as Tracy Holder of Lawton, 18. He said 60 or 80 young Indians had taken over the building at the Ft. Sill Indian School.

"I'm not in the school," he said. "I'm with the American Indian Movement. Carter Camp is the leader here. He's here tonight."

Camp is Oklahoma director of AIM. He is a Ponca Indian from Ponca City.

Asked why they took over the building, Holder replied, "The students here are unhappy with the faculty because they're all white. There are some faculty members here that have a list of demands they want met."

"They want a new administration, somebody who'll get in here and do what they're supposed to do. The administration is practically all white."

Prodded for some of the specific grievances, young Holder replied, "Things like ROTC. They don't want it here."

Police came from nearby Lawton, he said, but "the whole thing was peaceful. There was no reason for them to be called in. They came in and they tried to take it over, and everybody just held their ground."

The police left, he said, but arrested four of the protesters, and Holder said he "understood" the youths were beaten.

Asked again the reason for dissatisfaction, he said, "Things have been pretty bad here the last few years, and the students thought this was the time for a change."

Some students got on the line. One identifying himself as Elgin Red Elk, 17 and a brother of one who was arrested, said the dissatisfaction was from "being treated wrong."

How? "Oh, they don't let you go down town when you want to. They treat you like babies, put you to bed at 8:30 or 9, sometimes. A lot of other things—I can't think right now."

Had the students talked to the superintendent? "We talked to him, but we didn't get much out of him."

What did you ask him to do? "To leave."

Why? "Because this is not a very friendly school, and it's got a bad ... I can't explain right now. I'm not in a thinking mood."

Committee probe into break-in rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed full-scale congressional investigation of the break-in at Democratic headquarters in the Watergate Hotel was rejected today by the House Banking Committee.

The vote was 20 to 15. Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House committee proposed the inquiry, saying "harassment of opposition political parties through espionage and other means" has no place in American politics.

But the investigation proposal was denounced from both the Republican and Democratic sides of his committee. Critics said it would violate the rights of those already indicted in the break-in and bugging. Republicans contended, too, it would be a witch hunt.

"Politics should stay out of justice," said Frank J. Brasco, D-N.Y., one of a number of Democrats who joined Republicans in opposing the Watergate probe.

Rep. Garry Brown, R-Mich., asked each committee member to consider whether "the political benefit which we hope to derive" from the probe justifies the risk of jeopardizing the government's case against the Watergate defendants.

Patman proposed that his committee enter the affair after several questions of banking practices arose in the aftermath of the June 17 break-in at Democratic national headquarters in Washington's Watergate complex. Seven men have been indicted on charges resulting from the break-in and alleged

State, local governments are running budget surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — State and local governments—for which revenue sharing is being enacted—already are running a substantial budget surplus, an economic study reports.

The surplus would increase under either President Nixon's or Sen. George McGovern's espoused programs, but the increase would be larger under the McGovern plan, concluded the report commissioned by the private research organization, American Enterprise Institute.

The report suggests that the $30-billion, five-year revenue-sharing program will be taking effect just as the strain on the state and local governments, undoubtedly severe during the 1960s, is easing.

The report was written before McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, added to his proposals an extra $4 billion in emergency aid for cities. Even so, it estimated an aggregate 1980 surplus for the state-local government sector of $61.1 billion under the McGovern budget, and $20.6 billion under the Nixon budget.

While acknowledging that some states and local units still face fiscal problems, such as those resulting from loss of population, movement of industry and the need to equalize school spending, the study concluded:

"The problem is now one of bringing federal aid to state and local governments more in line with their over-all future needs, not the needs of the past, and to see that such aid goes to those states, cities and towns where real fiscal distress remains."

Under the present revenue-sharing bill, need is one of several factors determining distribution of funds, but all states and essentially all local government units are eligible for some funds.

The economic study commented: "To oversimplify, the federal government may be in the process of begging itself to relieve many state and local governments from having to finance outlays that may never

Naval strikes denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The retired commander of U.S. Pacific forces has denied that Navy pilots made unauthorized air strikes against North Vietnam or lured enemy anti-aircraft fire in order to justify their bombing.

Adm. John S. McCain Jr. made the statement to newsmen Monday after briefing a group of House members on the situation in Vietnam.

It was his first public comment since his closed-door testimony last week before the Senate Armed Services Committee on allegations that Navy pilots—as well as Air Force pilots commanded by Gen. John D. Lavelle—made unauthorized strikes.

"Under the rules of engagement they couldn't strike back unless the enemy did something first," McCain said.

But McCain refused to say if an enemy "radar lock-in" on an American plane was considered hostile action.

McCain also denied that Navy pilots did any trolling—flying a reconnaissance plane over enemy positions in order to lure anti-aircraft fire so U.S. attack planes could make strikes justified under air-war rules in effect at that time.

"I never heard the word" before the Senate hearing, McCain said.

A Senate transcript showed Lavelle mentioned the alleged Navy trolling several times, saying at one point: "I was aware the Navy tactic was trolling to draw fire and then they would hit their preplanned targets there."

wiretapping attempt.

When it turned out that four of the seven men had connections either to the White House or to President Nixon's campaign organization, the investigations broadened to encompass GOP campaign financing.

Patman said Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst asked him to call off the proposed investigation on grounds it would violate the constitutional rights of the former GOP campaign employees under indictment and would jeopardize the government's case against them.

The chairman asked the committee to approve the investigation. And he asked that subpoenas be authorized for some 20 witnesses, including John N. Mitchell, Nixon's former attorney general and then campaign director, and Maurice H. Stans.

'I believe in America, but I've been thinking' Charles tells newsmen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I believed in my country and I still believe in it. That's why I went to war," says Navy Lt. (j.g.) Norris Charles. "But I've done some more thinking."

Charles, one of three American officers freed by North Vietnam two weeks ago, told a news conference Monday that he would work for the end of the war and the release of the POWs "in uniform or out."

"It's my belief that these men will be returned as soon as the war is terminated," he said in San Diego, Calif., as he left the Balboa Naval Hospital after a three-day stay.

He did not elaborate on how he thought the war should be ended or detail his own plans beyond saying that he did not plan to join any antiwar group or endorse a presidential candidate.

Like the two other freed pilots—Navy Lt. Markham Gartley and Air Force Maj. Edward K. Elias—Charles had been hospitalized since his return undergoing medical tests and debriefing.

Although he lost 16 pounds during his 8½ months in prison, doctors say Charles is in good health. He said his treatment in North Vietnam was "pretty good" and medical care was "very adequate."

Charles, who lives in San Diego, was a radar officer in a fighter plane when he was shot down over North Vietnam last Dec. 30. In prison camp, Charles said, he "read up on a lot of issues."

"You read books published in America about the war, Russian philosophy, American philosophy. You were allowed to draw your own conclusions. A lot of POWs have different views," he said.

After the news conference Charles, his wife Olga, and their daughter Kirsten went home. Signs on the house put up by neighbors read, "Welcome Home Mr. Charles" and "We all love you Charles."

In Jacksonville, Fla., military intelligence personnel continued debriefing Lt. Gartley about his four years in North Vietnamese prisons.

He was not available to newsmen Monday but he brought good news to one prisoner of war wife. Mrs. Byron Fuller said Gartley told her he had seen her husband in a prison camp in 1968.

Although she knew her husband was alive because she hears from him in brief letters, Mrs. Fuller said, "Mark Gartley was so healthy looking it certainly gives me heart."

In Montgomery, Ala., Maj. Elias was visited by Gov. George C. Wallace and his wife, Cornelia, at the Maxwell AFB hospital where he has been undergoing medical tests.

Podiatrist warns of perils of 'wedges'

NEW YORK (AP) — Those platform or wedge shoes in their dashing colors may be the fashion fad, but according to some people: They're bad for the feet.

"The foot can't function properly with this type of shoe," says Dr. Monroe Jacobs, president of the Podiatry Society of the State of New York.

"The foot is made up of a number of joints, requiring free movement, and must have a grasping-type shoe to function properly."

"This rigid, tall platform shoe — some with five-inch heels set on three-inch platforms — are changing walking habits of many women," Dr. Jacobs goes on. "It's forcing them to shuffle along or rely on a stilt-like gait. It's the only way they can get around."

The shoe has a flat, immovable sole, he said, which prevents the free movement feet must have to function in a

Helen Help Us!

HELEN BOTTEL

"Patience Please," says VIVA DEAR EVERYONE:

This is an IMPORTANT MESSAGE to those of you who are still waiting for the Prisoner of War bracelets you ordered from VIVA this summer:

The tremendous flood of orders, resulting from (we're told) our two mentions in GENERATION RAP, created a backlog that is almost conquered, thanks to vast amounts of volunteer help, as well as—finally—the aid of a computer company.

Adding to the problem, a factory shipment of 40,000 bracelets was found defective and had to be returned.

If you have not yet received your POW bracelet, and a reminder to VIVA, 10906 LeConte, Los Angeles, Calif., 90024. A photocopy of your cancelled check or money order will help.

Should you have ordered from McClellan AFB, this address is: POW-MIA Headquarters, 3053 "R" Street, McClellan Air Force Base, California, 94632.

Thank you for your patience. VIVA is again accepting orders, and the price is: $2.50 (nickel); $3.00 (copper). Each bracelet is imprinted with the name of a prisoner of war, and should be worn until all such prisoners are returned home. May that day be soon!—HELEN AND SUE RAP:

To the fellow who lost his job because he neglected to include a conviction for possession of marijuana on his application blank: You'd better be thankful that it wasn't a felony charge in his state! Even though you get a suspended sentence on a "first offense" ... even though you're caught smoking one cigarette, and have never "sold," if it's a felony offense, this is what you might lose:

The right to vote, the right to own a gun or run for public office.

The opportunity of ever being a doctor, dentist, pharmacist, policeman, realtor, school teacher, stockbroker, engineer, lawyer, among many other professions which rule out convicted felons.

You may never get a job where you must be bonded or licensed. You can't work for city, county or Federal government.

But you can STILL be drafted or enlist in military service, though you won't have a choice of service or positions.

The majority of states can still throw a felony at you for pot use. A misdemeanor charge for a first offense is bad enough (it knocks you off good jobs) but why make pot a felony when the police just hand out a tap on the wrist to a teenager potting pills?—AGAINST UNFAIR LAWS A.U.L.

We, too, are against unfair laws, and at the top of our list is the one which makes "possession" of illegal drugs for private use a felony. Marijuana, reportedly less harmful than alcohol, should not be placed in the same category as heroin—and heroin users need rehabilitation more than jail!

"Discriminalization of marijuana"—that is, no arrest for possession of small amounts with no intent to sell—has been recommended by government drug-study commissions. Why not? —HELEN AND SUE DEAR RAP:

People who aren't on drugs can't understand that addicts have emotions, too. My wife is pregnant. I love her very much. We are both on heroin. We don't worry about it much when we're "up" but sometimes we wonder—should she get an abortion? This life isn't much, why bring a kid into it? Will he be born a druggie?—D.F.

P.S. She's 17 and I'm 19. We've quit a couple of times, but not now... Maybe some day when we get away from New Jersey.

DEAR D.: There's small chance that you'll read this answer: If you're "up" you'll feel you don't need it; and if you're "hurtin'," a newspaper is the last place you'll seek out for a fix.

But just in case you're only half way down and it's one of those days when the future is closing in—please do this...PLEASE!!

Ask the telephone operator for the number of your local drug-help center, or, if you prefer, ODYSSEY HOUSE, in nearby New York City. Counselors there will advise you about abortion, help you with a decision and, most important, steer you toward a cure.—HELEN AND SUE

POLLY'S POINTERS

Uses transistor radio as animal 'scarecrow'

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—This spring, my vegetable garden was invaded by rabbits, skunks and raccoons and they ate the peas, lettuce and corn. Scarecrows and lights did not work, but a transistor radio left playing in the garden all night did the trick.—V. M.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Can anyone tell me how to get mildew out of my baby's permanently pressed suit? I thoughtlessly threw a wet washcloth into the clothes hamper, where it stayed long enough to cause this problem. I do hope there is some way I can remove the mildew.—MRS. D. W.

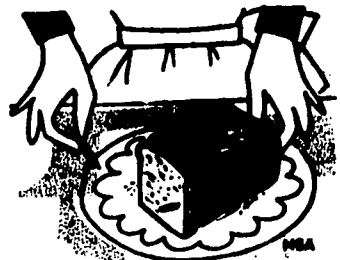

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is really a request that manufacturers of zippers make some good strong trousers zippers in short lengths. All I can find are 11 inches long, so I resort to removing zippers from old blue jeans or to even using buttons. Why would one have to buy an 11-inch zipper for an opening only four, five or six inches long? Please, readers, join me in writing to these zipper people.—ANN

DEAR POLLY—First, let me tell you how much I enjoy and use the Pointers, so keep them coming. Second, I would like to answer Mrs. W. E. B., who wants a solution for her problem with stale tobacco smoke in upholstered furniture. We are non-smokers but have to "live with" smoking guests. We find it works to squeeze a sponge out with white vinegar, dampen it and sponge the furniture lightly. Also, place a couple of small bowls of vinegar behind and under the furniture for a few days. The vinegar does not stain and the odor disappears like magic.—MRS. H. K. T.

DEAR POLLY—Small open bowls of water with a tablespoon of household ammonia in each are also effective for combating stale tobacco odors.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To keep the cut end of a cake from getting stale and dry, simply put a slice of bread against the cut end and fasten to the cake with toothpicks to hold it in place. The bread gets hard and the cake stays moist. I have been doing this for 15 years.—AUDREY

DEAR POLLY — A divided pencil holder, such as you may keep on your desk to hold pens and pencils, is a fine container to hold nail file, clippers, emery boards, etc., on your dressing table. Cover with adhesive-backed paper to match the room's decor.—MARY H.

Hospital Auxiliary meets

The Memorial Hospital Auxiliary met September 28 at Memorial Hospital with 16 members presided over by Mrs. Cecil O'Steen, Mrs. M.H. Pickett, and the opening prayer before routine business was conducted.

New members, Mrs. Wanda East, Mrs. Mabel Kysar, and Mrs. Ivy Mitchell, were given their work hours. Mrs. F.C. Crow was given her 500 hour service pin. The group will not meet again until December.

Keep It Clean

Skin breakouts are still the biggest problem teenage girls face. But today's blue jean-clad girls fight complexion blues differently than their pre-Beats era sisters. Mechanical-minded kids press a button to dry their hair, shave their legs, buff their nails — new skin care has entered the machine age. (Why not? Everything else is mechanized!) The kids are using The Skin Machine by Clairol to zap blackheads, remove excess oil. Doctors don't agree on the cause of acne, but they do agree to keep skin clean. The contest is on: machine vs. washcloth. And it looks like technology may win the clean-face-race.

Southern Cal heads top of list in AP poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern California, which scored 51 points Saturday, and Oklahoma, which scored 52, have solidified their positions as the top two college football teams in The Associated Press poll.

The Trojans, coached by John McKay, beat Michigan State 51-6 and received 36 first-place votes and 970 points from sportswriters and sportscasters in this week's poll.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks' Sooners crushed Clemson 52-3. They received 13 votes for first and a total of 907 points.

Ohio State and Alabama, fifth and sixth, respectively a week ago, moved into the third and fourth spots.

Ohio State beat North Carolina 29-14 and Alabama downed Vanderbilt 48-21. Colorado dropped from third to 12th after a 31-4 loss to Oklahoma State while Tennessee fell from fourth to 10th following its 10-6 defeat by Auburn.

Michigan, which received one first-place vote, was ranked No. 5, up three notches, after beating Tulane 41-7. Nebraska blanked Minnesota 49-0 and moved from seventh to sixth and Notre Dame jumped from 10th to seventh with a 35-14 victory over Purdue.

Louisiana State climbed one spot to eighth after whipping Wisconsin 27-7. Texas made the Top Ten for the first time this season as No. 9 following its 25-20 victory over Texas Tech.

In the Second Ten, it was Washington, Colorado, Florida State, UCLA, Stanford, Penn State, Auburn, Mississippi, Air Force and Iowa State.

Teams included in the poll for the first time this week were Auburn, Air Force and Iowa State. Dropping out were Arizona State, Tulane and West Virginia.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points based on 20-10-16-14-12-10-8-6-4-3-2-1:

1. USC (36)	4-0	970
2. Oklahoma (13)	3-0	907

Razorbacks work on passing

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Monday the Razorbacks' passing attack may have been neglected in practice so far this season, and he said emphasis will be placed this week on improving that phase of the game.

Rice Owls prepare for LSU Tigers

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rice Coach Al Conover doesn't have time to worry about a bruised lower lip courtesy of a Georgia Tech fan in Atlanta last Saturday: Louisiana State is a comin' to town.

The Rice coach said Monday someone popped him in the mouth after last Saturday's 26-36 tie with the Ramblin' Wreck and "I saw a couple of mocking birds and a lightning flash."

"I was just trying to get out of there," Conover said of a scuffle that broke out as the game ended.

Conover, who likes to prepare a few "trick" plays for the opposition, said it will be difficult to fool a veteran team like LSU.

Texas Tech Coach Jim Carlen's appraisal of the Longhorn offensive line as "something to behold."

However, Royal had praise for tackle Jerry Sizemore who played what the coach termed "an exceptional game" in Texas' 25-20 victory over the Red Raiders.

Rice meets Utah State (3-1) Saturday night at Austin in an intercollegiate game.

Royal said Utah State quarterback Tony Adams, a freshman starter at Texas in 1968, was "an outstanding passer. He's always had a good arm and he's progressed and matured so much since he was here" four years ago.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff warned his team Monday that Miami would be one of the biggest teams they face this year.

Teaff said Hurricane nose guard Tony Christiani "has to be one of the best in the nation. He did a great job against Florida State and again against Texas. I'm afraid we're going to have a terrible time keeping him off our quarterback."

At Lubbock, Texas Tech Coach Jim Carlen said Tulsa has one of the best secondaries "we've seen here."

"From a defensive standpoint, their secondary is the best we've played against since we've been here," said Carlen of Saturday night's opponent in Jones Stadium. "Out of the four who start I'd say three of them are pro prospects. You're not going to pick on them too much."

Snead does his thing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — New York Giants Quarterback Norm Snead, with a big assist from running back Ron Johnson, made the Philadelphia Eagles and their owner, Leonard Tose, eat humble pie Monday night.

Snead rubbed it in by doing his thing on national television (ABC). His thing was 13 of 19 pass completions for 164 yards and three touchdowns. He led the Giants to a 27-12 victory over the winless Eagles.

Johnson, the 206-pound running back who sat out most of last season with an injured knee, caught all three of Snead's TD passes, and ran the ball 36 times for 126 yards and the fourth touchdown. It was the first victory for New York in three games.

Tose, the wealthy trucking firm owner, put his foot in his mouth early last week, when in defense of head coach Khayat, he "guaranteed" the Eagles would beat the Giants. Tose has little or no respect for Snead as a quarterback. He led the move to trade Snead from the Eagles to the Minnesota Vikings after the 1970 season.

Snead came back last year and was the quarterback as the Vikings blanked the Eagles 17-0. He was traded this year to New York.

Snead refused to gloat. The 12-year NFL veteran basked in the victory rather than in recriminations.

"I feel nothing against the Eagles," said Snead after the game. "Maybe last year, but not now. It has been two years since I left. I'll tell you, though, it feels real good to win."

In the Eagles' dressing room, the red-faced Tose ripped his players.

"Jockey Angel Cordero has won two of the last five Sanford Stakes at Saratoga Springs, N.Y."

Chips are on the line for playoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Visiting players and managers have given varied opinions to the unanswerable question of who will win the National League playoffs which begin here this weekend.

Some have answered the question with the inevitable "Anything can happen in a short series." Others, however, have made their picks.

Gene Mauch of the Montreal Expos, not known for timidity of opinion, leans toward the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Because of one man—Roberto Clemente," Mauch says. "With the chips on the line, there is nobody better than Clemente. He can make all the difference in the playoffs against the Reds."

Mauch's appraisal was similar to another statement made here earlier this season by none other than Manager Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati, Pittsburgh's opposition in the playoffs.

Fate of Red Sox rests on pitcher Luis Tiant

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Luis Tiant, Boston's goateed right-hander, carries the fate of the Red Sox in baseball's American League East showdown with him tonight when he pitches "the most important game of my life," against Detroit.

The Sox just hope he doesn't slip.

It was a disastrous slip by usually sure-footed Luis Aparicio that short-circuited a Boston rally Monday night and when Detroit went on to whip the Sox 4-1, it left the Sox peering into oblivion. One more Detroit victory either tonight or Wednesday will spell title for the Tigers.

While Detroit was getting the jump on Boston in their head-to-head confrontation for the AL East flag, Montreal's Bill Stoneman stole some of the spotlight with the second no-hitter of his major league career, defeating the New York Mets 7-0 in the first game of a two-night doubleheader. The Mets won the second game, 2-1.

Elsewhere on an abbreviated schedule Monday, the Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia 4-3 in the National League. Milwaukee took the New York Yankees 6-1 and the Chicago White Sox tripped Minnesota 6-4 in the American League.

Mickey Lolich struck out 15 batters and limited Boston to six hits while Aurelio Rodriguez drove in three runs for the Tigers with a homer and two singles. Al Kaline also had a homer and two other hits.

Kaline had given Detroit the lead in the first inning with his 10th homer of the year and third in the last three games but the Sox seemed to be getting to Lolich in the third. Tommy Harper singled and raced to third on Aparicio's hit. Then Carl Yastrzemski boomed a 420-foot drive that scored Harper and sent Aparicio around third, headed for home.

"I had to wait around second base to make sure that the ball wouldn't be caught," said Aparicio, "and then I turned on the speed. I started to round third, but hit the bag on top. I stumbled and tried keep on going. Instead, I slipped on the grass and had to scramble back to the bag."

There he met Yastrzemski and the Tigers tagged Yast for the second out of the inning. Then Lolich struck out Reggie Smith to end the threat.

After that, the ball game belonged to Lolich, Kaline and Rodriguez. In the fifth, Rodriguez homered. In the sixth, Kaline singled and came around to score on a hit by Rodriguez. In the eighth, Kaline singled again and again the Tigers scored on a two-out single by Rodriguez.

The Detroit-Boston showdown was supposed to be the only significant game Monday but Stoneman added some meaning to the Montreal-New York two-night doubleheader with his no-hitter.

The veteran right-hander struck out nine but had to fight off frequent sieges of wildness that led to seven bases on balls.

A small but vocal Montreal crowd, sitting in 53-degree overcast weather, cheered Stoneman's every pitch as he closed in on his classic.

"It's nice to pitch one here," said Stoneman, who also hurled a no-hitter at Philadelphia April 17, 1969. "They're the best people in baseball and they were behind me all the way. A lot of professionals don't pay much attention to the crowds, but I heard those people today."

Boots Day supported Stoneman with good catches on the two plays in center field, racing to grab drives by Ed Kranepool in the sixth inning and Lute Barnes in the eighth. Day also drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple.

In the nightcap, Kranepool boomed a ninth inning triple and trotted home on Dave Schneck's two-out single to score the deciding run for the Mets.

Elsewhere, Buddy Bradford drilled a pinch-hit grand slam in the eighth inning to give the White Sox their victory over Minnesota. Bradford connected against reliever Dave LaRoche to turn the game around for Chicago.

Ken Brett limited New York to six hits and pitched Milwaukee to its victory over the Yankees. He lost dropped the Yankees to fourth place in the AL East, one-half game behind idle Baltimore.

Pete Lacombe drove in three

Gustin named Player of Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — If Berryville's Allen Gustin is an example, running backs will be turning to hurdling to improve their balance.

Gustin was named Arkansas High School Player of the Week for his performance last week in the Bobcats' 54-7 romp over Marshall.

Gustin, 5-foot-8, 160 pounds, carried 18 times for 220 yards and scored four touchdowns—giving him 17 in five games—and played only one series in the second half. Gustin has topped 200 yards rushing in each of Berryville's five games and the Bobcats are 5-0.

"He finished third in the low hurdles in the Class A state meet and his hurdling seems to give him a lot of balance," says Berryville Coach Ron Clark. "The best thing about him is that he is able to stay on his feet and keep moving. It's hard for one man to knock him down. He runs with a lot of spin."

Clark says that despite his size, Gustin is strong and durable.

"He's probably the second strongest boy on the team," Clark said. "He's started three years for us and has not missed a game since junior high school. He plays 48 minutes for us. He punts, returns kicks, returns punts and does a real good job at defensive half-back."

Clark says that Gustin, who lines up as the left halfback in the Berryville Wishbone, did most of the Bobcats' scoring in their first three games.

"He was our only starting back from last year," Clark said. "But now the others are starting to come around and this is helping him."

Against Marshall, Gustin scored on runs of 64, 25 and eight yards. He returned the second half kickoff 92 yards to the one and then got his fourth TD on the first down.

"When he gets close to the goal line, he seems to find a way to get in there...whether it's hurdling across or what," Clark said.

Gustin scored 120 points and rushed for more than 1,000 yards last year and scored 10 touchdowns as a sophomore.

Clark says Gustin's oldest brother was an all-state running back and that another brother received all-district honors. Gustin has a younger brother, Bo, who is Allen's sophomore replacement.

Others who deserve mention this week:

Charles Walker, North Little Rock Ole Main tailback, carried 36 times for 283 yards and the game's only touchdown in a 10-0 victory over El Dorado.

J.R. Ross, Malvern halfback, rushed for 200 yards, scored a two-point conversion and kicked a field goal as the Leopards won a big Region 7AA game from Hope, 11-0.

Leroy Duncan, Decatur halfback, scored on runs of 14, nine and five yards, scored a two-point conversion, and rushed for more than 100 yards in a 28-20 victory over Gentry.

Donnie Tennison, Jonesboro halfback, carried 22 times for 100 yards, scored one touchdown and set up another with a 72-yard run as Jonesboro whipped Stuttgart 14-0.

Legal tangles unraveling for Irving

NEW YORK (AP) — The first step has been taken toward unraveling the complications surrounding the Julius Erving case in pro basketball.

Erving is the 6-foot-6 University of Massachusetts star who left college after his junior year a year ago to play for the Virginia Squires in the American Basketball Association. He jumped to the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association after his rookie season.

The Milwaukee Bucks then drafted him after his Massachusetts class graduated and were given the rights to him, over Atlanta's objections, by the NBA Board of Governors.

Now Erving has been barred by a Federal district judge from playing for any team other than the Squires.

Judge Edward R. Nease ruled Monday in issuing a preliminary injunction. He also ordered the Squires to settle their contract dispute with Erving by arbitration as soon as possible.

Dist. 7AA news

And then there were two. The list of Div. 7AA teams with unbeaten conference records is down to two. Magnolia's Panthers and Malvern Leopards are on a collision course set for Oct. 13th. Both teams posted imposing wins this past weekend.

Malvern reduced the unbeaten list in league play from three to two with an 11-0 win over the Hope Bobcats. Magnolia ended the Haynesville, La., win streak at 30 with a 10-3 win over the Louisiana Class AA defending champs.

In other action Camden edged Arkadelphia 14 to 13 in a league contest while Crossett surprised Warren 28-2, Ashdown downed DeQueen 21-0 and Fairview lost to Prescott 14 to 10 in non-loop contests.

Malvern's J.R. Ross carried 40 times for 194 yards against the Bobcats, scored on a two point conversion and booted a field goal to run his individual scoring leadership to 61-points. Ross has gained 811-yards in five games. Ross has 7 TD's.

Magnolia added prestige to 7AA's record against non-conference foes. The win over Haynesville, their first in several seasons, pushed 9 out of 13 the victories against non-loop teams, many of equal or higher classifications. It marked the first time any team had scored on Haynesville this season.

Three conference games this week send Malvern to Fairview on Thursday night; Arkadelphia to Magnolia, and Hope to Crossett on Friday night. In non-league games Ashdown plays at Prescott, and Camden is host to Helena.

Magnolia leads the league in defense against first downs, pass interceptions, defense against rushing, team scoring, defense against scoring. Malvern leads the loop in first downs and team rushing.

The "foot" is really back in the game as two more field goals were booted making a total of eight in the league just halfway thru the season. Paul Bonds of Magnolia kicked his second. Seven of the eight schools now have kicked a FG. Bonds also leads the PAT kickers.

Hope and Camden cannot be counted out of the race with only one loss. Hope has yet to play Magnolia and Camden has yet to play Malvern.

River bill OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., said the House passed Monday its Omnibus Rivers and Harbors and Flood Control Act of 1972, which contains authority for land acquisition in the Cache River-Bayou DeView channelization project.

Since Senate and House versions of the bill contain different wording on a number of provisions, Alexander said a final bill will have to be worked out in conference.

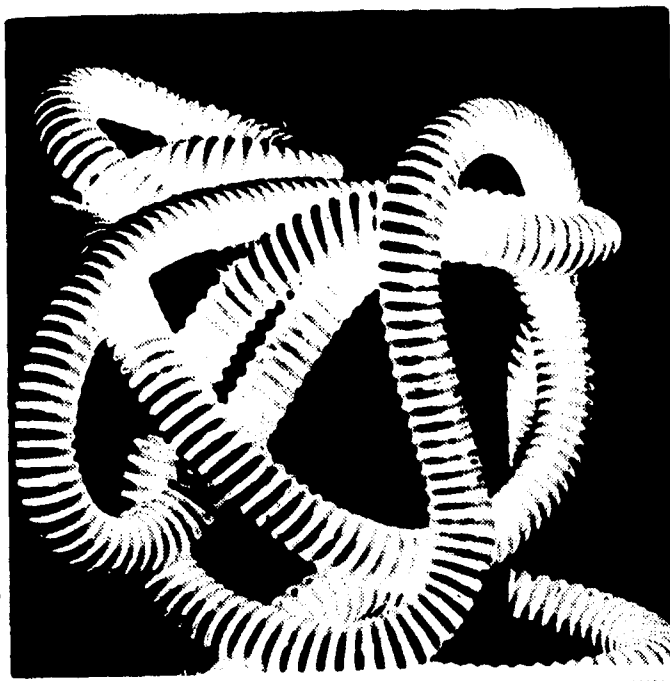

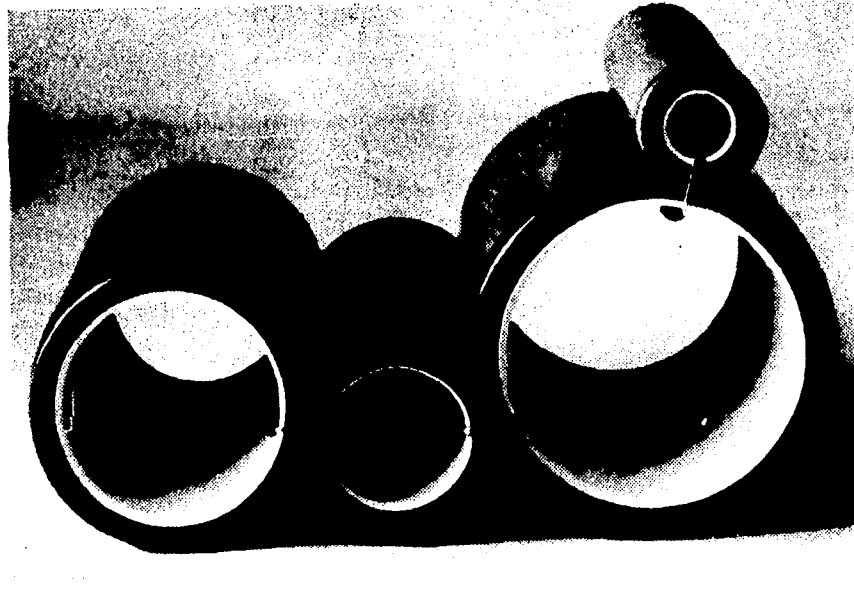

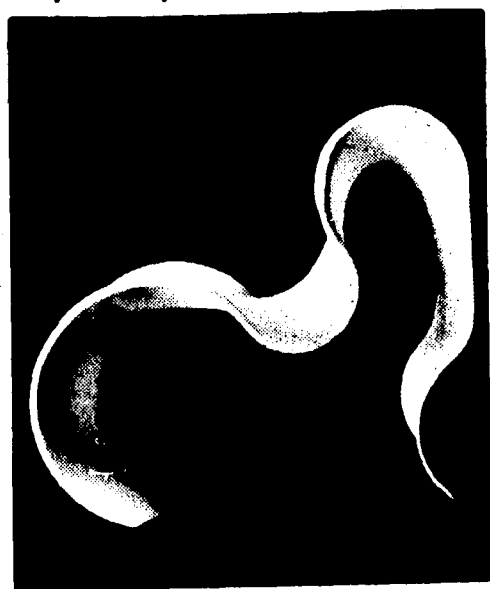

The congressman said he expected Army Engineers to move rapidly with steps involved in acquiring fish and wildlife mitigation land in the Cache and Bayou DeView basin.

Alexander said he was assured by the corps in August that it was prepared and willing to take steps toward acquisition, but could not do so until the land acquisition was authorized by Congress.

Also contained in the bill is authorization for construction funds for a new highway bridge over the Norfolk Reservoir in North-Central Arkansas.

Escapees captured

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — State Police said today that two armed forces prisoners who escaped Monday had been captured in a rural area near Conway.

Authorities said the two were being escorted to Memphis when they escaped in a Navy car while the vehicle was being serviced at a service station four miles east of here on U.S. 64.

The escapees were identified as Glendale R. Sturgeon, 21, a sailor, and William L. Hicks, 19, a Marine.

The two petty officers were not armed. They said they had picked up the prisoners at jails in North Little Rock and Hot Springs and were en route to Jonesboro to pick up another prisoner before transporting all of them to Memphis.

PARIS (AP) — Edward Gierrek, Poland's Communist party leader, has arrived here for a four-day official visit.

He told President Georges Pompidou on his arrival Monday that he hopes cooperation between his country and France will be extended and will "contribute to a lasting peace in Europe."

In his welcome speech at Elysee Palace, Pompidou said France gave its "active support" to the Polish policy of detente in Europe, and he expressed hope that the political, economic and cultural relations with Poland would be strengthened.

People in the News

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace has paid a visit to Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, a member of the prisoner of war who is undergoing medical tests at a military hospital here.

Wallace, a veteran of World War II combat, greeted Elias warmly at Maxwell Air Force Base hospital Monday and expressed hope for the safe and speedy release of other servicemen held in North Vietnamese prison camps.

Elias returned to his homeland last Thursday after nearly five months of captivity in North Vietnam.

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Author Pearl S. Buck, who is recovering from gall bladder surgery, has been out of bed and moving around in her room, doctors at Medical Center Hospital reported Monday.

A spokesman said physicians for the 80-year-old author were pleased with her recovery following Friday's surgery.

Miss Buck, the Nobel Prize laureate and Pulitzer Prize winner who lives in Danby, entered the hospital Sept. 24 suffering from abdominal pains.

South can count 11 easy tricks at his slam contract. He also sees that if spades break or the jack drops he has his 12th trick right there.

If he is a really good player he will note that there is a possible club-spade squeeze but that he should give up a trick to establish the squeeze situation.

The only place to give up a trick is in clubs so South wins the heart lead in dummy and leads a club to his jack.

There is another extra chance here. East might hold both the king and queen of clubs and might not play one of them.

The last chance does not come off. West wins the club and leads a second heart.

Now it is up to South to cash all his top cards in hearts, diamonds and clubs. Maybe the squeeze will develop.

It doesn't, but something else does. South watches the fall of the cards. He sees East discard on the second club and fourth heart and West discard on the third diamond. This gives him a perfect count of the East hand. Three hearts, five diamonds, one club and four other cards which have to be spades.

Now South cashes dummy's king and queen of spades and finesse against East's jack in complete safety.

Emergency care: Weakest link in health care

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors were alarmed when they saw the burned and battered 17-year-old youth wheeled into the hospital emergency room.

On a bet he had climbed a utility pole in rural Georgia. The electrical jolt at the top burned his shirt off. The 30-foot fall broke his back and, worse, ribs. One lung was punctured.

But the doctors' alarm multiplied when the ambulance driver boasted how by himself he had handled the emergency. He dragged the youth 50 yards to the ambulance, then rushed to the hospital without immobilizing the victim on a back board to spare possible aggravation from broken bones grinding and cutting within the youth's body.

The youth was relatively fortunate. He lost an arm to the electrical burn, but his other injuries mended without crippling damage.

But another 60,000 persons were not so fortunate last year. That's the number of heart attack, accident and other victims of sudden illness who could have lived if given proper emergency care, according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Emergency medical service is one of the weakest links in the delivery of health care in the nation," said the National Academy of Sciences in a March study.

The conclusion is echoed repeatedly in government reports and testimony before Congress.

The academy estimated more than 20,000 of the 25,000 ambulances in the country are of the hearse, limousine or station wagon type "inadequate in space and equipment." The Department of Transportation estimated that 53 per cent of the nation's ambulances don't have equipment specified in American College of Surgeons standards.

An HEW survey showed five per cent of the nation's ambulance attendants have no training in first aid. And while almost two-thirds of the attendants have completed the equivalent of an advanced first aid course, the most recent survey showed only about five per cent of all attendants measured up to the more stringent requirements proposed by the federal government.

The survey found that once in ambulances and on their way to hospitals, 40 per cent of the victims received no emergency health care.

The science academy recommended that every ambulance be equipped with a radio system so that hospitals could be provided with information on what sort of injuries to expect and to permit hospital doctors to monitor a patient's vital signs.

Less than 7 per cent of the nation's ambulances can communicate with hospitals, according to HEW.

And once at the hospital, there is no guarantee of prompt, top-notch care. The American Hospital Association reported that about half the nation's hospitals do not have a basic capability for emergency care.

Bill to outlaw VN trips may pass: Ichord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief sponsor of a bill to outlaw unauthorized trips by Americans to Hanoi says he'll win in the long run even though he lost his bid to take a legislative short cut.

"I'm running against time," said Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the Internal Security Committee, after he fell 18 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed under a procedural maneuver in the House Monday.

With the congressional session draining away, Ichord said he would ask the House Rules

TESTS INCONCLUSIVE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller says that tests performed last week in connection with a possibly malignant cyst removed from his back have been inconclusive.

Rockefeller entered a hospital in New York City Sept. 24. The cyst had been removed from his back the previous week at a Morriston, Ark., doctor's office.

"I will continue to remain as long as is necessary, but I do want you to know that your concern, your thoughts, your prayers and good wishes do make the days go faster," Rockefeller said in a statement issued here Monday.

APPOINTMENT MADE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Robert W. Henry of Conway was appointed Monday by the Arkansas Supreme Court to the state Board of Law Examiners. Bill Penix of Jonesboro was reappointed to the board.

geons' suggested standards for emergency departments call for every patient to be seen by a doctor within 15 minutes.

The standards also suggest that every emergency department be open 24 hours a day and that a doctor see every patient.

But the American Hospital Association found that only 17 per cent of the hospitals with emergency rooms are staffed by a doctor on duty 24 hours a day.

Authorization for $20 million in aid to hospital emergency rooms has been on the books for two years, but Congress has yet to appropriate the money.

The Nixon administration opposes the latest legislation, contending improvement of emergency service is a state and local responsibility.

The American College of Surgeons has praised ambulance service in Seattle, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami and Jacksonville, Fla. The number of deaths per accident victim has dropped by 30 per cent in Jacksonville since the city upgraded its service, which is provided by the fire department.

But nationwide, the Department of Transportation told Congress it has not designated any state as meeting all the standards set for emergency Committee to let him bring the bill back to the floor soon under rules allowing it to pass with a simple majority. The bill has the backing of Rules Committee Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss.

The leading opponent of the bill, Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., a member of Ichord's committee, claimed the bill would let the president block trips by journalists and families of prisoners of war.

"This is the first victory for civil liberties within living memory on the floor of the House," Drinan said.

The bill attracted 229 supporters and 141 opponents, but failed to gain the two-thirds majority needed to pass under the terms by which the House suspends its rules.

"I'm very happy with the vote," Ichord said. "It shows the bill will pass overwhelmingly when it is considered by the House" under the usual method of obtaining a so-called "rule"—a special plan for floor action—from the Rules Committee.

The legislation would make it a felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine, for an American to visit a country in armed conflict with the United States unless the trip had presidential approval.

The bill was prompted by visits to North Vietnam by actress Jane Fonda, former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, and other war critics.

But Drinan called the bill unconstitutional and a threat to free speech and the rights of newsmen who could be "prevented from reporting the news from Hanoi as they see it."

More $ for state colleges sought

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The legislature was asked Monday by the state Board of Higher Education to raise the state's contribution to the operating budgets of the state universities and colleges to $73.6 million in fiscal year 1974. And the board requested $83.4 million in fiscal 1975. This year, the state is giving about $56 million from state tax sources. The figures do not include revenues from tuition and other sources. Almost $32 million was sought by the board from capital improvements. The money apparently would come from the state's general revenue surplus. Nearly half of the request would be for enlargement of the University of Arkansas Medical Center.

The board's proposals were less than what the colleges had requested. The schools had asked that their share of general revenues be raised to $87.4 million in fiscal 1974 and to $99 million in fiscal 1975. The schools wanted $84.7 million more for general improvements.

Dr. Olin Cook, director of the state Higher Education Department, said the budget would give the institutions about the same percentage of total state general revenues they were receiving now.

About 70 per cent of the funds requested are distributed among the schools on the basis of a formula that considers enrollment, square footage in buildings, etc. The rest is not based on such data but on the judgment of the staff in analyzing the requests.

Policeman's safe return is pleaded

HILLSIDE, Ill. (AP) — Mayor Harry A. Pusateri of this Chicago suburb has issued a plea for the safe return of a patrolman believed abducted over the weekend.

"I'm numb. I'm mystified," the mayor said Monday about the apparent kidnapping of Hillside patrolman Anthony Raymond.

"If there is any mercy in these men, let him come home peacefully." FBI agents, more than 40 Chicago area police departments and a number of civilian volunteers joined in the search for Anthony, who disappeared late Sunday shortly after stopping two men in a car following a restaurant holdup.

Chief Robert L. Huffman of the Hillside police said another patrolman found Raymond's squad car abandoned on the Eisenhower Expressway with its engine running and the warning light flashing only minutes after Raymond, 24, had radioed that he was about to stop a car containing two men. As Raymond began to transmit the car's license plate, his signal was cut off by a broadcast from a neighboring police department.

Minutes before Raymond's disappearance, two men robbed the Swedish Manor Restaurant in Hillside, escaping with the contents of its safe.

"We can only surmise that the men in the car were the ones in the holdup," Huffman said, "but it looks awfully likely."

Student Council holds its annual installation

Hope High School's Student Council met last week to hold their annual installation. Held at the Town and Country restaurant, President Mike Huckabee presided over the semi-formal banquet.

Installation speaker for the assembly was Rev. Gordon Renshaw, pastor of the Unity Baptist Church. Advisors to the council are Mrs. W.A. Williams, Mrs. Kathleen Jordan, and Tim Strawn.

Rev. Renshaw administered the oath of office to all the officers and representatives of the council, then offered a challenge to the group. He stated that for any sort of organization to work properly, you must have involvement headed by able leadership. "You must strive to make Hope High School a better school and Hope a better place to live in by setting your goals high and then by cooperating with each other to reach goals that would be of service to other people," explained Rev. Renshaw.

Addressing the assembly, Huckabee dared them to improve the council and to not let themselves rest upon the laurels of past achievements.

Plea for passage of bill unheeded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has pleaded again with the Senate to pass the President's welfare reform plan—and not just a test of it—but the plea seemed likely to go unheeded.

Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Monday that passage of only a test program would delay solution of the problems of welfare families for five years.

But it appeared that none of the rival proposals—President Nixon's Family Assistance Plan, the tough Workfare plan devised in the Senate Finance Committee, nor the liberalized version of FAP pushed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.—could command anywhere near a Senate majority.

AP Special Correspondent
Seven men. All dressed in simple blue denim prison garb. All crewcut. All American. And they had something else in common: a powerful desire to come home.

I could reach out across the table and touch their hands. Yet the gulf between us was immeasurable. I was a free man, about to board a plane within the hour and wing back to the United States.

Not these men. One of them, Navy Cmdr. Eugene Wilbur, from Columbia Cross Roads, Pa., had sat across that table a dozen times in the past four and one half years, watching faces of free men flit by as he waited for his turn. Wilbur and the six others were all U.S. pilots shot down over North Vietnam and held in prisoner of war camps. I was with a delegation of four American antiwar activists in Hanoi to escort home three pilots released by the North Vietnamese.

At the last moment of our ten-day visit we were summoned to a Government building in downtown Hanoi. We were ushered into a long room and saw tables crowded with beer bottles and glasses.

A few seconds later they came in, seven men with hands outstretched and faces beaming. They were more eager to see us than any other men I had ever met.

Two North Vietnamese officials sat in the room with us. Reporters and television cameras flooded in for the first five minutes. The affair was obviously carefully orchestrated by the North Vietnamese, the pilots handpicked for the meeting.

But only a master impresario could have created the spontaneous burst of feeling that had the pilots in bear hugs with their American visitors.

It is known that most of the approximately 400 U.S. pilots officially reported held in North Vietnamese prison camps don't wish to meet with visiting journalists and U.S. antiwar activists. Apparently they are fearful of being labeled as collaborators.

The Pentagon, however, says it will not hold pilots responsible for statements made while in prison. And watching these seven men animatedly discussing their letters, and families, and prison life, I felt it would take a hardened heart indeed to condemn them for coming that day.

The antiwar statements the seven made apparently were part of the scenario of the meetings, the price of admission. Some of the 12 American pilots released by the North Vietnamese over the years reversed their anti-war statements after they returned to America. Others didn't.

The antiwar rhetoric came thick and fast. Wilbur has met with other visiting groups and he repeated what he had said then.

"Tell my wife and family you have seen me. Tell her to use every facility to help you and the antiwar movement," he said. "Tell her I am working at this end."

Lt. Peter Callahan, from Belmore, New York, said, "I don't know how you can talk with my wife without giving her mental anguish in choosing between the peace movement and the government. If there is ever a group of men duped by the government, then here we sit."

Then there were the personal asides. Callahan said he was shot down on June 21 this year, and at the time his wife was nine months pregnant. She has made no reference to it in her letters. "Am I a father or aren't I?" he wanted to know.

Lt. Donald Karl Logan of Northridge, Calif., said, "Tell my wife to stop typing her name at the end of her letters. Tell her to write it out so I know it's her."

"Say hi to Patty for me," said bachelor Air Force Lt. Greg Hanson, from Thousand Oaks, Calif., in a personal message.

"Just don't play games with the packages," said Lt. Richard Fulton, from Mesa, Ariz., when told by the visitors of North Vietnamese charges that spying devices were being sent into the camps from America.

Capt. David Hoffman, from San Diego, Calif., mentioned the names of several other POWs and said, "These people have not received any mail from their families since the day they were shot down."

And all the men bemoaned the continued air war against the north.

"I think we are in more danger from our own aircraft dropping bombs than we are from the North Vietnamese," said Hoffman.

The conversation flowed on. The beer glasses clinked and you could almost forget that these men were prisoners and you were free. But not for long.

One of the North Vietnamese officials stood up and announced to the visitors, "You have a plane to catch," and the talk was over. The pilots sucked at the dregs of their beer glasses.

Callahan crushed my hand as he went out. "Get us out of here, will you?" he said, and then they were all gone, swallowed up in Hanoi City somewhere.

Maybe a whim of the North Vietnamese will pluck some of these men to freedom, like the three pilots who came back with us from Hanoi last week. For the others, the wait will continue. Some Americans in North Vietnam have already been prisoners of war longer than any other servicemen in American history.

Soil testing is necessary

The soil on your farm or lot may be well drained, be in good physical condition, and have a thick topsoil.

It may look good, but this is no guarantee that it is fertile and will produce good crops. Calvin J. Caldwell, county Extension agent, says this is where soil testing enters the picture.

"Fall is a good time to take soil samples," he adds. "Soil test results obtained in the fall are the same as those in the spring. Too, the soil testing laboratory isn't as rushed in the fall as it is in the spring."

"A soil test tells the farmer what plant nutrients his soil needs. This helps set up the liming and fertilization program. A good soil fertility program increases the chances of better income and better quality crops."

"And don't forget," adds Mr. Caldwell. "Liming in the fall is best. Lime is usually easier to apply in the fall than in the spring because the ground is firm. But don't lime fields unless they have been soil tested and lime is recommended."

Man retires by running

OK, Maine (AP) — A 63-year-old Portland man who is celebrating his retirement by running the length of Maine — some 400 miles — reached the half-way point Monday.

"I'm eating like a horse, but I can't gain an ounce," said Jim Carroll, who started ticking off about 20 miles a day starting from Kittery Sept. 23. Carroll, who retired as chief controller at the Portland International Jetport a few months ago, says he's making the long jaunt "to satisfy a big ego and give my grandsons something to think about."

He said he expects to reach his goal of Fort Kent, a northern border town, in 10 days.

Duration of hot flashes varies

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Has any average been established as to how long women who suffer with "hot flashes" have to suffer from these freaks of nature? At my last check up I asked my doctor about this question and he asked if I was on any medicine and I told him no, I don't want to take hormones. Then he snapped "Well then I just won't tell you." He's tried to get me to take hormones for several years but I have a great fear of cancer and don't know enough to argue with this doctor who I feel is very competent otherwise.

My fears may be groundless but I am still afraid of the medicine. I thought if he would just tell me that these hot flashes would last just a few months more I could tough it out, and then it would be all over. They are really bad at night. Sometimes I awaken with one of these "things" about to hit and I grab for the fan, if I'm

Choosing a New Name

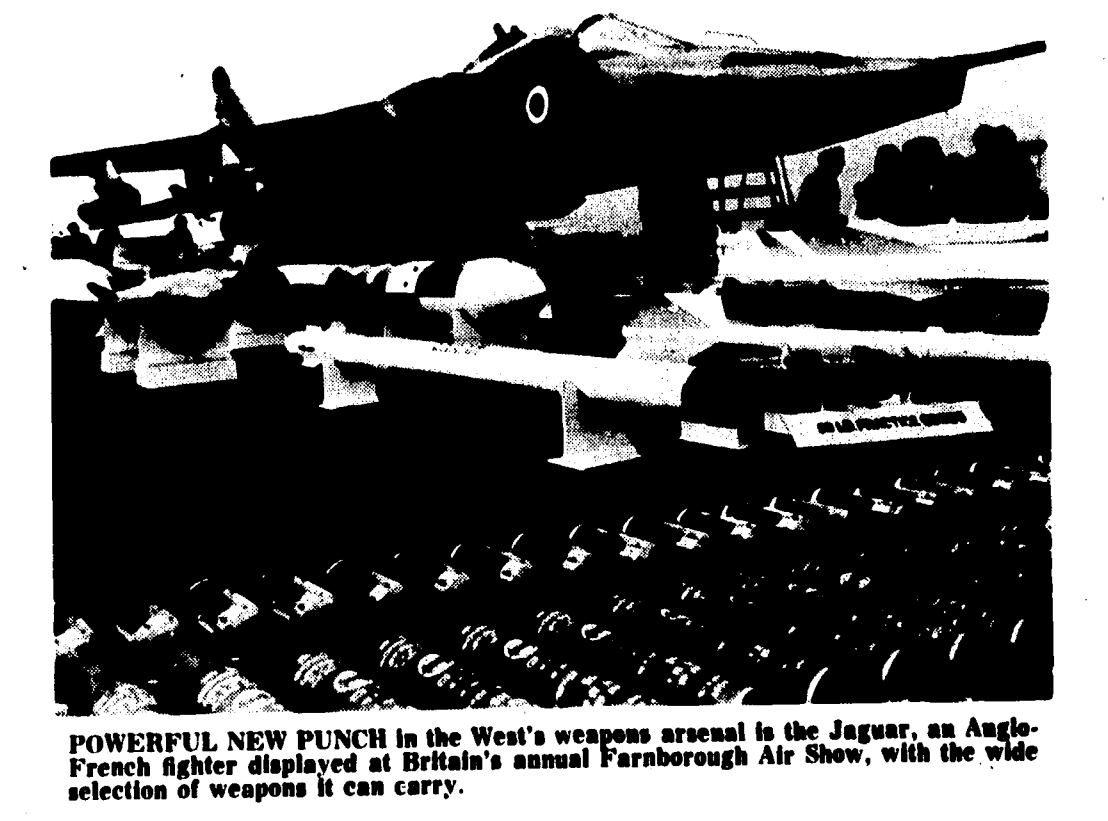

Embarrassed by his "foreign" name, a young man went to court to have it Americanized. But at the hearing, his own parents showed up to protest. In their eyes, he was disgracing his family and denying his past.

Nevertheless, the court approved the change.

"The law," said the court, "does not require a man to perpetuate the surname of his ancestors."

POWERFUL NEW PUNCH in the West's weapons arsenal is the Jaguar, an Anglo-French fighter displayed at Britain's annual Farnborough Air Show, with the wide selection of weapons it can carry.

still not clutching it from the last one. I'm 52, and had my last period about a year ago and have been having the flashes about a year also.

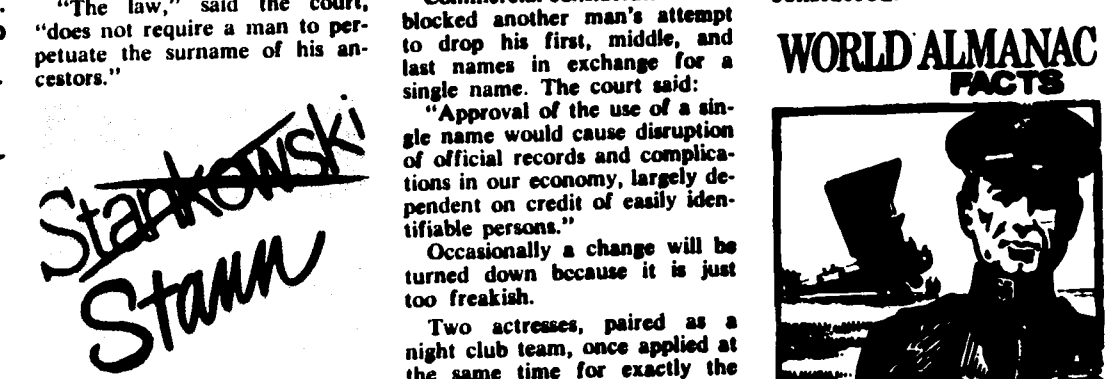

Dear Reader — The duration of hot flashes varies. Some women are not bothered noticeably by them, others have them only a few months and others experience them for a year or longer. It's unpredictable.

There has long been concern that the use of female hormones could cause cancer. The evidence that supports this is rather meager. The problem is that lots of women develop cancer of the breast and female organs anyway and would do so even if they weren't given additional female hormones.

In recent studies, there is some evidence to suggest that the women on female hormones are less likely to develop cancer of the breast than those who are not. Some of the old "sawtooth" on this idea are under attack with well designed research studies questioning some of the previously readily accepted ideas. Similarly, there is some evidence now that the reason women smokers don't develop cancer of the lungs as is commonly noted in men, is because female hormones protect the lungs. Neither of these studies, however, have any relationship to the use of hormones in women who already have cancer. So the subject is still wide open but lots of women use female hormones and don't have any subsequent difficulties because of the hormones. Incidentally the dosage used to help women through menopause is usually relatively small.

Now your doctor has other reasons for wanting to give you hormones besides just hot flashes. A small amount of female hormones will help protect the sexual organs, preventing drying out and subsequent inflammation problems common to older women who are deficient in female hormones. There is some evidence that at least in some women, female hormones may be helpful in preventing fatty deposits in the arteries and heart disease although this problem is more complicated than that. Then female hormones help to prevent the gradual thinning or dissolving of the bones that occurs frequently in women past the menopause. These changes lead to the humped back, loss of weight, and other skeletal changes. So just enduring the hot flashes alone isn't the only question to be considered.
